Milliken Carpet Reclamation

Milliken prioritizes its reclamation solutions based on what's best for the environment. Milliken's Earth Square® process was able to find renewal/reuse solutions for 33% of its reclaimed carpet last year.

Where does my old carpet go?

We're glad you asked. The Milliken Reclamation Program allows the processes of removing your old carpet to actually become a bright spot in your ambitious renovation time line. In fact, your carpet may find a "second life" through our Earth Square® process. Our program ensures that the replaced carpet is managed in the most environmentally and socially responsible way. No carpet ends up in the local landfill — period.

Milliken & Company's first documented recycling program is over one hundred years old. We truly believe that a successful enterprise must be accountable to more than its shareholders. Milliken's business philosophy is founded on the premise that we are also accountable to our environment and the communities in which we operate. Keeping unnecessary waste out of our landfills is a key part of that commitment.

Proper disposal of old carpet can be a complex undertaking. Let us help. There are often many considerations before choosing the best solution — carpet condition, face fiber, backing type — not to mention logistics and economics. Milliken's Reclamation Program provides you with one or more solutions that will be good for the environment and, in most cases, your budget. Here's how the process works — it's easy:
